Introduction & Overview

The purpose of the packet is to provide information, major materials, and contact particulars for a BA -Arts Management Major (AM). This packet contains information on requirements, guidelines, and procedures for declaring, matriculation, and completion of the Arts Management major.

The Department of Arts Administration, Education and Policy at The Ohio State University (OSU) focuses on the areas of art education and arts policy research and development for teachers, researchers, and policy-makers. It is ranked number one nationally and internationally at the graduate level for its leadership in art teacher education, graduate programs, and quality of theoretical and research presentations and publications by faculty members, and is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Art and Design (NASAD) and the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE).

The Arts Management major is designed for students planning a career in arts and cultural institutions, arts councils and agencies, or in for-profit arts organizations. The program prepares students professionally through several areas of study: cultural policy, or as agents in public or government support systems for the arts; arts administration, or as leaders and managers in nonprofit presenting and performing organizations; and in arts entrepreneurship, or as individual proprietors of for-profit art organizations. The Department of Arts Administration, Education & Policy within the College of the Arts and Sciences, offers the program. All graduates of the AM program receive a bachelor's degree or BA.

In addition to General Curriculum Requirements for university graduation, the Arts and Sciences General Education requirements, and Arts Management course requirements for the Bachelor's of Arts (BA) Arts Management major, students must abide by general policy and procedures of the Colleges of Arts & Sciences:

The Department of Arts Administration, Education and Policy and Educator Preparation Unit Mission Statements

The mission of the Department of Arts Administration, Education & Policy is to prepare educators, researchers, administrators, and policy makers for research and practice in art education through its integrated, multifaceted programs and collaborations across the University. Our goal is to prepare students to lead through art education towards a critical and informed citizenry committed to advancing the public interest with regard to opportunity, diversity, effective public policy, social justice, and creativity.

Our programs promote understanding of the arts and other forms of visual culture, policy, and education for all students through a curriculum that is research-based, interdisciplinary, and intent on collaboration with communities within the University, state, nation, and world. We emphasize understanding of arts and culture, especially visual culture, in a global, culturally diverse, and technological society. This content is explored through the following: pedagogical theory and practices, critical inquiry of historical and contemporary artworks; the analysis of public and educational policy in the arts and cultures; and inquiry in the philosophical, historical, and policy foundations of art education, arts management, and cultural policy administration. Our curriculum includes attention to understanding multimedia technologies in cultural production, critique of policies, teaching, learning, assessment, and awareness of comparative international practice.

The scope of the Department's undergraduate offerings includes general education and courses for elementary classroom teachers. In addition to a Bachelor of Art Education (BAE) degree program that provides undergraduate students with a well-rounded liberal arts education, intensive studies in visual culture, and significant preparatory course work in the theory and practice of art education, the Department also offers a four-year P-12 teacher preparation program with licensure. In addition, the Department offers a BA degree- Arts Management major (AM) and a minor in entrepreneurship and the arts in collaboration with the Fisher Business School.

The Department provides graduate courses for experienced teachers through our Online Masters; a Master's degree in arts policy and administration carried out in collaboration with the John Glenn School of Public Affairs; a set of museum education courses; professional development for in-service teachers and school administrators; and advanced graduate study encompassing a wide array of doctoral research specializations.

The mission of the educator preparation unit* of The Ohio State University is to prepare educators, through the generation and use of research, who are highly qualified for and who are passionate about maximizing student learning across all P-12 school age and demographic groups.

*The programs across the institution (College of The Arts & Sciences, College of Education and Human Ecology; College of Food, Agriculture & Environmental Sciences; College of Social & Behavioral Sciences and College of Social Work) that prepare individuals to work in P-12 settings.

Arts Management Degree Program

The Arts Management major (AM) requires a minimum of 36 credit hours of course work taken through courses offered in the departments of Arts Administration, Education and Policy, Finance, Accounting and the Arts.

Career Prospects in Arts Management:

While the needs of the field and its organizations are specific, the AM major emphasizes the importance of interdisciplinary study blending concepts and skills from multiple arts disciplines, public policy environments, and management operations. As a result, students with an undergraduate focus on arts management will acquire career skills that can be applied in many venues.

Students may seek employment in public or nonprofit arts councils, arts agencies, and advocacy groups at the local, state, regional or national level. Because of the emphasis on public policy, students may transfer their skills to other nonprofit or community service organizations outside of the arts. Those who have an interest in arts education can work with organizations, community-based, and school partnership programs.

Students will acquire skills in marketing, development, and finance as well as organizational leadership. These skills allow students to work in arts and cultural institutions of various sizes and diverse missions. Students may seek the major to complement a performance or production career within their respective arts industry. Because of their management-related skills students are prepared to work collaboratively with other artists in entrepreneurial or for-profit arts organizations.

Through the AM major, students will understand the issues, problems and policy interventions impacting the contemporary arts and cultural industries, develop business and managerial skills for professional decision making in arts and cultural organizations, and practice creative and critical thinking, opportunity recognition and innovation in various arts and cultural environments. Students will understand the professional role and responsibilities of successful creative individuals in contemporary society.

Program Goals and Student Outcomes

Students majoring in Arts Management will think critically and creatively about contemporary issues and trends influencing arts and society, acquire knowledge of creative sector entities and their relationships, integrate theories of organizational purpose/function into planning activities, and practice the innovative decision making needed to serve the public in many professional roles. Beyond the core courses, students will have access to advanced courses in policy and administration. Students are encouraged to elect a visual or performing arts emphasis. In addition to course-related projects, students will have opportunities to integrate theory and practice in field research, internships/mentorships, honors thesis study, and study abroad. These experiences enable students to gain valuable practical experience, assume leadership roles while a student, and may provide an advantage as the student enters the workforce.

Student learning outcomes (what students will know and be able to do) upon graduation are embedded in the following program objectives:

To understand the principles of entrepreneurship as applied to arts and culture.

- To practice creative and critical thinking;
- To recognize trends and opportunity for arts and cultural in various environments;
- To create social and economic value through innovative art practice;
- To actively engage the public in arts and cultural activity.

To understand the problems, possibilities, and interventions impacting the contemporary arts and cultural environment.

- To map the relationships within the creative sector: the artist, the artistic product/service, the industries, and the infrastructure;
- To appreciate both similarities and differences among different arts fields (e.g., theatre, dance, museums, orchestras, etc.);
- To interpret the role of social/cultural values, beliefs and attitudes related to audience participation, advocacy, and education in contemporary arts and culture participation;
- To understand the legal, economic, technological influences shaping the cultural landscape.

To understand the purpose, function, and professional planning and decision making of arts and cultural organizations.

- To describe the internal structure, cultures and operations of non-profit arts and cultural organizations;
- To examine issues of organizational governance, leadership, and human resources;
- To design, implement, and evaluate innovative audience-focused programming;
- To develop entrepreneurial skills vital in generating and managing revenues and resources.

To understand the professional role and leadership responsibilities of the artist and the cultural worker in society.

- To reflect on the personal, social and cultural value of arts and culture;
- To examine the non-profit, public, commercial, and academic career paths open to artists and those working in cultural fields;
- To develop entrepreneurial skills for the marketplace of ideas, arts products, and cultural services;
- To gain practical experience in arts and cultural venues through individual and group research projects, mentorships, internships and study abroad.

Arts Management Degree Program

Declaring the major:

As this is newer Undergraduate major, students may declare the AM major as long as they have a 2.00 GPA and have completed their Pre-requisite coursework. Once the AM major reaches a point where current AM faculty can no longer support increased numbers and/or internship needs, the Undergraduate Studies Committee may develop an application process which limits the number of AM students. Typically, this would include a GPA benchmark, a Statement of Intent regarding the student's career goals, and a student resume.

The Arts Management major program guidelines:

Credit hours required: A minimum of 36

Transfer credit hours allowed: A maximum of 9

Grades required:

- Minimum C- for a course to be counted on the major.
- Minimum 2.00 cumulative point hour ratio required for the major.

*The major program form must be filed at least by the time the graduation application is submitted to a college/school counselor.

Recommended Courses:

Students are encouraged to support the major with courses from outside the program. The function of arts programming within cultural institutions is covered by courses within the arts management major, that is, each course attempts to balance and integrate art criticism, production theories, institutional history and understanding of specific cultural contexts into readings and discussion. Nonetheless, the major relies on specific arts disciplines to shape a student's understanding of programming content. For example, beyond a careful and focused selection of General Education Requirements, students may choose interdisciplinary courses that focus on policy environments and internal organizational operations from fields such as humanities, management, social service areas, or education. Likewise, students are encouraged to take courses supporting visual and/or performing arts content and programming from any College of the Arts and Sciences Humanities units or departments: ACCAD, Architecture and City Planning, Art, Art Education, Dance, History of Art, The John Glenn School of Public Policy, Design, Music, and Theatre.

General Education Courses: Students are encouraged to investigate courses that are complementary to the major, and to incorporate course prerequisites when possible in their General Education requirements. Visit artsandsciences.osu.edu for a full listing of GE courses available.

Courses 1 & 2 Writing Levels
Course 3-4 Literature & Arts
Course 5-6 Math/Logic & Data Analysis
Courses 7-8 Biological Science & Physical Science
Course 9 Historical Studies
Course 10 & 11 Social Science A, B
Course 12 Culture & Ideas, Historical Study, Social Science
Courses 13 & 14 Open Option (6 Units)
Course 15 Language Proficiency
Course: "0" Count (3) Social Diversity, Global Studies

Arts Management Degree Plan

Students take the following courses:

Pre-requisites: Four (4) courses/12 Credit Hours

ECON 2001 Principles of Economics
BUSMHR 2500 Entrepreneurship
MATH 1130 College Algebra for Business
CS&E 1110 Introduction to Computing Technology

ARTS MANAGEMENT CORE COURSES:

Business: Three (3) courses/9 Credit Hours

ACCTMIS 2000 Foundations of Accounting (prereqs MATH 1130; ECON 2001 and CS&E 1111 or equivalent)

BUSFIN 3120 Foundations of Finance (prereqs: ACCTMIS 2000, MATH 1130 or equiv; ECON 2001, CS&E 1111 or equiv)

BUSMHR 3510 Innovation & Entrepreneurship (prereqs: BUSMHR 2500)

 ACCTMIS 2000 is for non-majors, however many students find it difficult to do well. If you know math is not a strength area, you might consider taking accounting at Columbus State Community College. Be advised that you need both 2000 levels (or two courses at CSCC) for the credits to transfer and count toward fulfilling ACCTMIS 2000 credits at OSU.*

4189/4191 Undergraduate Field Experience or Internship [APA Faculty/Internship Sites]
Internships must be approved by AM major advisor. Evaluation form and reflective paper and/or evidence of work product is required for the internship to count. 3 credit hours is the equivalent of 20 hours of work.

ARTEDU 4998 or 4998H Undergraduate Scholarship: Research and Creative Activity in Art Education [APA Faculty/Undergraduate Research Office]

4890: Seminar on Special Topics in Art Education:

This course addresses in-depth specific management operations, skills and tools, such as grant writing, program design and event planning.

Study Abroad Opportunities

The Department of Arts Administration, Education & Policy offers several exciting study abroad programs within the department. These trips take place annually, but cycle through in a series of possible locations depending on the year. Students in the AAEP department can travel with faculty and peers to Brazil, Chile, Ireland and Jamaica to experience how arts education, arts policy, and management are globally enacted. We also are working toward an opportunity to partner with Korea. These opportunities have classroom components and coursework that precede travel.

Domestic Study Opportunities

Domestically, students can travel to Washington, DC to participate in the annual Arts Advocacy Day. Students and faculty meet with State and National representatives as advocates for the arts and engage in policy making at the highest levels.

Every three years, students can travel with faculty and fellow peers to the National Museum of the American Indian in Washington, DC and have unprecedented access to their museum archives, meet with museum educators, and experience educational policy in action.

Academic Integrity and Misconduct

The values that underpin the concept of academic integrity go beyond simply not cheating or plagiarizing. Embracing these values means that you are responsible for your own learning; you have an obligation to be honest with yourself and others; and you have the responsibility to treat other students and your professors with respect and fairness.

The Ohio State University and the Committee on Academic Misconduct (COAM) expect that all students have read and understand the University's Code of Student Conduct, and that all students will complete all academic and scholarly assignments with fairness and honesty. Students must recognize that failure to follow the rules and guidelines established in the University's Code of Student Conduct may constitute "Academic Misconduct."

The Ohio State University's Code of Student Conduct (Section 3335-23-04) defines academic misconduct as: "Any activity that tends to compromise the academic integrity of the University, or subvert the educational process." Examples of academic misconduct include (but are not limited to) plagiarism, collusion (unauthorized collaboration), copying the work of another student, and possession of unauthorized materials during an examination.

Per University Rule 3335-31-02, "Each instructor shall report to the committee on academic misconduct all instances of what he or she believes may be academic misconduct." Cheating on examinations, submitting work of other students as your own, or plagiarism in any form will result in penalties ranging from an "F" on an assignment to expulsion from the University, depending on the seriousness of the offense. For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct (http://studentaffairs.osu.edu/info_for_students/csc.asp). If you have any questions about the above policy or what constitutes academic misconduct in this course, please contact the instructor.

Ten Suggestions for Preserving Academic Integrity

(from <http://oaa.osu.edu/coam/ten-suggestions>)

The following suggestions will help you preserve academic integrity by avoiding situations where you might be tempted to cheat or you might be perceived to be cheating.

- ACKNOWLEDGE THE SOURCES THAT YOU USE WHEN COMPLETING ASSIGNMENTS: If you use another person's thoughts, ideas, or words in your work, you must acknowledge this fact. This applies regardless of whose thoughts, ideas, or words you use as well as the source of the information. If you do not acknowledge the work of others, you are implying that another person's work is your own, and such actions constitute plagiarism. Plagiarism is the theft of another's intellectual property, and plagiarism is a serious form of academic misconduct. If you are ever in doubt about whether or not you should acknowledge a source, err on the side of caution and acknowledge it.
- AVOID SUSPICIOUS BEHAVIOR: Do not put yourself in a position where an instructor might suspect that you are cheating or that you have cheated. Even if you have not cheated, the mere suspicion of dishonesty might undermine an instructor's confidence in your work. Avoiding some of the most common types of suspicious behavior is simple. Before an examination, check your surroundings carefully and make sure that all of your notes are put away and your books are closed. An errant page of notes on the floor or an open book could be construed as a "cheat sheet." Keep your eyes on your own work. Unconscious habits, such as looking around the room aimlessly or talking with a classmate, could be misinterpreted as cheating.

- DO NOT FABRICATE INFORMATION: Never make-up data, literature citations, experimental results, or any other type of information that is used in an academic or scholarly assignment.
- DO NOT FALSIFY ANY TYPE OF RECORD: Do not alter, misuse, produce, or reproduce any University form or document or other type of form or document. Do not sign another person's name to any form or record (University or otherwise), and do not sign your name to any form or record that contains inaccurate or fraudulent information. Once an assignment has been graded and returned to you, do not alter it and ask that it be graded again. Many instructors routinely photocopy assignments and/or tests before returning them to students, thus making it easy to identify an altered document.
- DO NOT GIVE IN TO PEER PRESSURE: Friends can be a tremendous help to one another when studying for exams or completing course assignments. However, don't let your friendships with others jeopardize your college career. Before lending or giving any type of information to a friend or acquaintance, consider carefully what you are lending (giving), what your friend might do with it, and what the consequences might be if your friend misuses it. Even something seemingly innocent, such as giving a friend an old term paper or last year's homework assignments, could result in an allegation of academic misconduct if the friend copies your work and turns it in as his/her own.
- DO NOT SUBMIT THE SAME WORK FOR CREDIT IN TWO COURSES: Instructors do not give grades in a course, rather students earn their grades. Thus, instructors expect that students will earn their grades by completing all course requirements (assignments) while they are actually enrolled in the course. If a student uses his/her work from one course to satisfy the requirements of a different course, that student is not only violating the spirit of the assignment, but he/she is also putting other students in the course at a disadvantage. Even though it might be your own work, you are not permitted to turn in the same work to meet the requirements of more than one course. You should note that this applies even if you have to take the same course twice, and you are given the same or similar assignments the second time you take the course; all assignments for the second taking of the course must be started from scratch.
- DO YOUR OWN WORK: When you turn in an assignment with only your name on it, then the work on that assignment should be yours and yours alone. This means that you should not copy any work done by or work together with another student (or other person). For some assignments, you might be expected to "work in groups" for part of the assignment and then turn in some type of independent report. In such cases, make sure that you know and understand where authorized collaboration (working in a group) ends and collusion (working together in an unauthorized manner) begins.
- MANAGE YOUR TIME: Do not put off your assignments until the last minute. If you do, you might put yourself in a position where your only options are to turn in an incomplete (or no) assignment or to cheat. Should you find yourself in this situation and turn in an incomplete (or no) assignment, you might get a failing grade (or even a zero) on the assignment. However, if you cheat, the consequences could be much worse, such as a disciplinary record, failure of the course, and/or dismissal from the University.

- PROTECT YOUR WORK AND THE WORK OF OTHERS: The assignments that you complete as a student are your "intellectual property," and you should protect your intellectual property just as you would any of your other property. Never give another student access to your intellectual property unless you are certain why the student wants it and what he/she will do with it. Similarly, you should protect the work of other students by reporting any suspicious conduct to the course instructor.
- READ THE COURSE SYLLABUS AND ASK QUESTIONS: Many instructors prepare and distribute (or make available on a web site) a course syllabus. Read the course syllabus for every course you take! Students often do not realize that different courses have different requirements and/or guidelines, and that what is permissible in one course might not be permissible in another. "I didn't read the course syllabus" is never an excuse for academic misconduct. If after reading the course syllabus you have questions about what is or is not permissible, ask questions!

Other student policies and responsibilities, including the Code of Student Conduct can be found at <http://studentaffairs.osu.edu>.

Students with Disabilities

The Office of Student Life Disability Services (SLDS) at OSU offers a wide variety of legally mandated services to students with documented disabilities. After reviewing a student's documentation, a counselor will determine appropriate academic services and accommodations, depending on the student's functional limitations in the academic setting. A counselor at SLDS will train a student in accessing the accommodations for which they are eligible. Students will then be responsible for requesting most accommodations in a timely manner and for following SLDS policies and procedures for accessing accommodations.

The mission of SLDS is to collaborate with and empower students who have disabilities in order to coordinate support services and programs that enable equal access to an education and university life.

There are two legal mandates that protect students with disabilities from discrimination and ensure that they have equal access to all aspects of university life. These laws include Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1990.

Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act states: "No otherwise qualified individual with a disability in the United States...shall, solely by reason of his or her disability, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance."

Title II of the ADA states: "A public entity shall make reasonable modifications in policies or procedures when the modifications are necessary to avoid discrimination on the basis of disability, unless the public entity can demonstrate that making the modifications would fundamentally alter the nature of the service, program, or activity."

(from http://slds.osu.edu/faculty_handbook.asp)

Students with disabilities that have been certified by the Office of Student Life Disability Services will be appropriately accommodated and should inform the instructor as soon as possible of their needs. The Office of Student Life Disability Services is located in 098 Baker Hall, 113 W. 12th Avenue; telephone 292-3307, TDD 292-0901; slds@osu.edu
